The study Acute effects of 40 mg cortisol on emotion and cognition (EudraCT# 2017-003331-10) was completed as planned, without adverse events.

Data processing and analyses were not finalized before funding of the researchers ran out. Because of lack of resources, data still have not been analyzed.

Although it is not impossible that resources to this end will be available at some later time, it is highly unlikely. These data remain unanalyzed until further notice.
