General information about the trial

Main objective of the trial:

To assess the efficacy of three different doses of OMT-28 administered once daily versus placebo in the maintenance of normal sinus rhythm after electrical direct current cardioversion (DCC) in patients with persistent AF treated with an appropriate anticoagulant therapy.

Protection of trial subjects:

The study aims to minimize potential risks to patients based on the proposed inclusion/exclusion criteria and safety monitoring, including use of the insertable cardiac monitor (ICM), and by establishing an internal Data Monitoring Committee (DMC) responsible for ensuring patient safety.
